Moodle: Overview - Moodle for lecturer

Moodle is a freely available online learning management system (LMS). This modular and adaptable teaching and learning platform supports studying and teaching, as well as work in research projects and other organizational units. The system is suitable as a supplement to face-to-face teaching, for blended learning, for distance learning programs, and as a communication and collaboration platform.

The platform is intended to support communication between students and lecturers and to enable the location- and time-independent provision of learning materials and content.

An overview of all Moodle functionalities can be found in the course What can Moodle do? on our Moodle learning platform. Link to the course (enrollment key: MoodleKann!)
